COMPREHENSION

TASK 4 Passage	Read the passage below carefully then answer the questions (20 to 27) based on it. Pleased use complete and proper sentences to provide your answers.
--------------------------	--

ONCE upon time there was a man. He was a primitive, he lived in a Cave, wore very few clothes, and he couldn't read nor write. He didn't want to read or write. He was quite happy, except when he was hungry. His name was Tegumai, his wife's name was Teshumai, and his little daughter's name was Taffimai. As soon as Taffy could run about she went everywhere with her Daddy Tegumai, and sometimes they would not come home to the Cave till they were hungry, and then Teshumai would say, 'Where in the world have you two been to, to get so shocking dirty? Really, my Tegumai, you're no better than my Taffy.'

One day Tegumai went down through the Beaver Swamp to the Wagai River to spear carp-fish for dinner, and Taffy went too. Tegumai's spear was made of wood with shark's teeth at the end, and before he had caught any fish at all he accidentally broke it clean across by jabbing it down too hard on the bottom of the river. They were miles and miles from home and Tegumai had forgotten to bring any extra spears.

'Here's a pretty kettle of fish!' said Tegumai. 'It will take me half the day to mend this.'

'There's your big black spear at home,' said Taffy. 'Let me run back to the Cave and ask Mummy to give it me.'

'It's too far for your little fat legs,' said Tegumai. 'Besides, you might fall into the Beaver-swamp and be drowned. We must make the best of a bad job.' He sat down and took out a little leather mendy-bag, full of reindeer-sinews and strips of leather, and lumps of bee's-wax and resin, and began to mend the spear. Taffy sat down too, with her toes in the water and her chin in her hand, and thought very hard. Then she said—'I say, Daddy, it's an awful nuisance that you and I don't know how to write, isn't it? If we did we could send a message for the new spear.'

SEA Practice Test #6 - ELA (75 minutes)

'Taffy,' said Tegumai, 'how often have I told you not to use slang? "Awful" isn't a pretty word, but it could be a convenience, now you mention it, if we could write home.' Just then a stranger came along the river.

TASK 5 Poem	Read the poem below carefully then answer the questions (28-34) based on it. Please use complete and proper sentences to provide your answers.
------------------------------	---

Once upon a jolly road, oh so merry,
A grassy path where children dance and prance,
Just an hour away from Guildford town,
Above the river Wey, a splendid chance.

Back in days of yore, when bells did chime,⁵
Brave Britons donned their finest attire,
To witness Phoenicians, oh so sublime,
Their treasures carried on the Western Road's fire.

In this very spot, or maybe nearby,
They gathered for talks, so full of cheer,¹⁰
Trading beads for jet, oh my oh my,
And tin for shiny shells, oh so dear.

But even long before that time,
When bison roamed with such glee,
Taffy and her Daddy would climb,¹⁵
And call this town their home, you see.

Beavers built in Broadstone brook,
Creating a swamp where Bramley now stands,
Bears from Shere would take a look,
Searching for Taffimai in Shamley's lands.²⁰

The Wey, sweet Taffy named it Wagai,
Was six times larger in those days old,
And the Tribe of Tegumai, oh so spry,
Were a sight to behold, courageous and bold!²⁴

Revision Definition- Metaphor

A metaphor is a figure of speech that compares two things by saying one thing is another, even though they are not literally the same.

Why would a writer use this device?

Writers use metaphors to create vivid imagery, evoke emotions, and add depth to their writing. By comparing one thing to another, metaphors can convey complex ideas in a more relatable and accessible way.

Example 1: Metaphor.

Her laughter was music to his ears

In the sentence, the metaphor compares the sound of her laughter to music, emphasizing the joy and pleasure it brings. Metaphors are powerful tools that allow writers to engage readers and enhance their understanding and appreciation of the text.

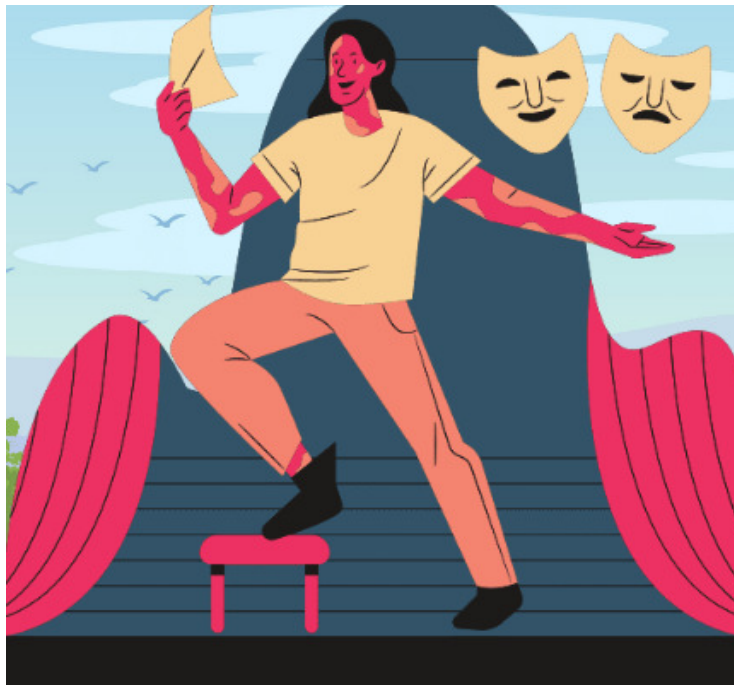

Example 2: Metaphor

The world is a stage.

The metaphor compares the world to a stage, suggesting that life is like a play where people play different roles and perform for an audience.

This metaphor not only creates a visual image in the reader's mind but also conveys the idea that life is full of drama, performances, and interactions just like a theatrical production. By using metaphors, writers can convey emotions, ideas, and concepts in a more creative and impactful way.

In summary, to conclude, the use of metaphor in literature and language is a powerful tool that allows for complex ideas and emotions to be conveyed with depth and nuance. Whether used to create vivid imagery, evoke strong emotions, or challenge societal norms, metaphors play a crucial role in shaping the way we perceive and understand the world around us.

A Study Tips: Maintaining Focus

One effective study tip for maintaining focus is to create a designated study area free from distractions. By establishing a quiet and organized space solely for studying, individuals can better concentrate on their tasks without interruptions. This area should be well-lit, comfortable, and equipped with all necessary materials to minimize the need to get up and search for items, which can break concentration.

Additionally, setting a specific study schedule and committing to regular study sessions can help train the brain to focus during these dedicated periods. Eliminating background noise, turning off notifications on electronic devices, and practicing mindfulness techniques can also aid in maintaining focus and improving overall study efficiency.
